Course Remedy

Complete Step-by-Step Guru Course and Get-Rich Funnel Guide

THE FAST VERSION

- Capture the exact earnings or outcome claim.
- Verify the seller, credentials, curriculum, and refund terms independently.
- Treat webinars, counselors, and urgency as sales process, not proof.
- Never finance unverified get-rich education.
- Calculate the cash price versus total financed tuition.

THE COMPLETE STEP-BY-STEP PROCESS

STEP 1 - Write down the exact result being promised

Capture earnings, success rate, speed, risk, required capital, typicality, refund, and limited-availability claims verbatim when possible.

STEP 2 - Separate teaching revenue from claimed practitioner success

Course revenue is not proof of deception, but it is also not proof that the seller can achieve the underlying result being sold.

STEP 3 - Start with free legitimate education

Use exchanges, regulator education, libraries, accredited colleges, regulated brokers, books, and paper-trading or simulation before paying high tuition.

STEP 4 - Treat the free seminar or webinar as a sales event

Decide in advance that you will not buy during the presentation. Preserve the offer and contract and review them later.

STEP 5 - Map the entire upsell ladder

List every tier, orientation, advanced course, mastermind, subscription, signals group, mentorship, and recurring charge.

STEP 6 - Verify credentials and registration only when relevant

Use BrokerCheck, IAPD, NFA BASIC, state regulators, or other official registries when the actual conduct requires registration. Education alone does not automatically require it.

STEP 7 - Demand evidence for earnings and outcome claims

Screenshots, testimonials, lifestyle images, and selected winning trades are not independently verified track records.

STEP 8 - Recognize the counselor or mentor sales role

If the person probes financial pain, urgency, debt, retirement money, or home equity in order to close tuition, treat it as sales pressure and stop.

STEP 9 - Ignore same-day scarcity

A real educational product can be evaluated after you read the contract, refund terms, curriculum, and evidence.

STEP 10 - Inspect the curriculum before paying

Look for learning objectives, sample lessons, instructor qualifications, assessments, support, practice environment, and what concrete skill is taught.

STEP 11 - Read the refund and cancellation terms

Record deadlines, conditions, exclusions, recurring charges, arbitration or dispute provisions, and what happens if access is terminated.

STEP 12 - Do not finance until the offering is independently verified

High-cost tuition plus high-interest financing can create a large loss even if the course itself is merely mediocre.

STEP 13 - Calculate the full financing cost

Use cash price, amount financed, APR, fees, term, payment, total of payments, and any deferred-interest trigger.

STEP 14 - Never let an unverified educator control your money

Do not send investment funds, hand over account credentials, or allow account management without the registrations, controls, and evidence the activity requires.

STEP 15 - Use evidence-scoped conclusions

The right output may be 'real education documented,' 'do not rely on earnings claims,' 'financing risk,' or 'insufficient data' rather than a blanket scam label.

HARD STOPS / MAJOR RED FLAGS

- Guaranteed or near-guaranteed high returns with little or no risk.
- Screenshots/testimonials are the only proof of results.
- Same-day pressure tied to a high-ticket upsell.
- Personal financial pain is used to overcome objections.
- Pressure to use credit cards, retirement funds, or home equity for tuition.
- Seller wants control of investment accounts or deposits without verified authority.
- Refund terms are materially different from the sales pitch.
- Registration is claimed but cannot be verified where the conduct actually requires it.

SOURCE AND SCOPE

Built from the canonical Course Remedy v2.1 master. The master is an evidence-first marketing-claim, contract, financing, curriculum, seller-identity, and regulatory-status screener. It is not a fair-price calculator and does not label a seller fraudulent from price, webinars, testimonials, or course revenue alone.
